

TIM ALLEN

CEO, CARE.COM

Tim Allen is the CEO of Care.com, responsible for the company's strategic direction, leadership and growth, as well as its commitment to deliver on its mission to transform and improve how families around the world connect with and manage care for their loved ones.

A 15-year veteran of media and technology company IAC (Nasdaq: IAC), Tim has played pivotal roles shaping the early days of well-known IAC brands like Vimeo and Ask.com, and has held leadership, operations and management positions at dozens of other IAC portfolio companies in categories such as search, mobile software and video. Most recently as founder and CEO of IAC's Mosaic Group, Tim led the acquisition of more than a dozen mobile software developers globally to bootstrap what is now a thriving collection of award-winning mobile subscription products—including iTranslate, Robokiller and Daily Burn— that collectively counts 4 million paying subscribers across 40+ titles. A major contributor to IAC, Mosaic Group generated nearly $200 million of revenue in 2019.

Tim earned his MBA from Northeastern University, a B.S. in Information Technology from the University of Massachusetts and completed the General Management Program at Harvard Business School.
