

KAT SADEGHI, JD

SENIOR VICE PRESIDENT, HNTB CORPORATION

Kat Sadeghi is a project finance and infrastructure development professional specializing in large-scale public-private partnership (P3) projects in North America. Kat is currently serving as a Vice President at HNTB doing strategic advisory work with a focus on P3s and alternative delivery. Kat previously served as an Investment Director at AECOM Capital (ACAP), the equity investment arm of AECOM, where she managed the commercial and legal work streams on public infrastructure pursuits. Prior to joining ACAP, Kat was a practicing attorney for over 7 years, focusing primarily on infrastructure and project finance. She worked as a Senior Associate at Ashurst and, before that, an Associate at White & Case. Kat has extensive transactional experience, both as an attorney and a developer, and has experience working across asset classes, including on transportation (road, rail, aviation), social infrastructure, and broadband projects.

Kat received a JD from the University of Connecticut School of Law, an MA in Near Eastern Studies from New York University, and a BA from the University of Pennsylvania. Kat is also a former Fulbright Scholar (Ankara, Turkey - 2003-2004), a founder of the Young Professionals in Infrastructure, an officer and board member of the American Road and Transportation Builders Association, has taught in the Construction Management program at Columbia University, and lives in Brooklyn, NY.
