

CHRISTOPHER PADILLA

SENIOR ADVISOR, BRUNSWICK GROUP

Christopher Padilla is a Senior Advisor at the Brunswick Group, a global strategic advisory firm. He advises corporate clients worldwide on geopolitical and public affairs matters, including international trade, technology, and tax policy. Previously, Padilla led global government and regulatory affairs for IBM Corporation for 15 years. He oversaw a team of advocacy professionals in 36 countries and managed trade and sanctions compliance for IBM's global operations.

Before IBM, Padilla held senior roles in the Commerce Department. The President twice appointed him to Senate-confirmed positions, as Under Secretary of Commerce for International Trade, and as Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Export Administration. He also held roles as an Assistant United States Trade Representative, a Senior Advisor at the Department of State, and as a member of the Congressional-Executive Commission on China.

Earlier, he spent 15 years in marketing, business development, and international trade relations roles at AT&T and Eastman Kodak Company. He is a past board member of the YMCA of the USA, the Council of the Americas, and the Information Technology Industry Council. He holds a B.A. and an M.A. in international economics from Johns Hopkins University and lives in the Washington, DC, area with his wife and two sons.